My name is Rob. I run a martial arts program. I have been interested in making our programs more inclusive. We get a number of students who have issues with their attention and/or motor coordination and we have struggled with how to instruct them effectively.

We sought an occupational therapist who has consulted with us. The occupational therapist helped us:

- Understand the specific types of learning challenges these children experience.
- Modify our teaching strategies to include more verbal support, problem solving and videotaped instruction.
- Adapt some of our equipment to allow for more gradual progressions in our activities.

As a result of the input from the occupational therapist, we have developed a positive reputation in our community as a welcoming and inclusive program which has been very helpful in our business development.

Because of occupational therapy, I can do martial arts.
