OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY NOW

2019 Cover Photo Contest

OT Now is inviting members once again to submit photos to illustrate the practice magazine's cover. Your photos will help OT Now authentically represent occupational therapy in Canada. We are looking for dynamic images depicting occupation and/or occupational therapy in Canada. Images selected for the cover will be inspiring and diverse in terms of the subjects or occupations presented, the regions they come from and the perspectives they represent. Some ideas might include occupation in spring/summer/winter/fall, National Occupational Therapy Month events, a favorite meaningful occupation or a scene from your workplace. Be creative!

In addition to a general call for cover images, we are also seeking cover photos for two theme issues in 2020:

- March 2020 – "Occupational Therapy and low vision"
- July 2020 - "Occupational therapy and multiprofessional practice: Better together"

Submission requirements

1) Image requirements:

- Portrait orientation
- Image must fit well between required cover textboxes (top right and bottom left). You may find it helpful to print an 8.5"x11" rough copy of your photos and place cut-outs of the regular OT Now cover text boxes on top to see how they look.
- Resolution must be at least 300 dpi
- jpg is the preferred file format

2) Story: With your photo, please include up to 50 words explaining what the image depicts and why the image is meaningful. The stories for selected cover images will be published in OT Now.

3) Photo release forms: Signed photo release forms are required from the owners of all photos. If photos include identifiable people, a signed photo release form is required from each person. See below for forms.

4) Send all photo submissions (along with the accompanying stories and forms) to: otnoweditor@caot.ca by December 1, 2019.

The Canadian Association of Occupational Therapists (CAOT) provides services, products, events and networking opportunities to assist occupational therapists in achieving excellence in their professional practice. In addition, CAOT provides national leadership to actively develop and promote the client-centred profession of occupational therapy in Canada and internationally.

The photographs submitted will be considered for publication in issues of Occupational Therapy Now printed between 2019-2023. The photographs will be used solely for this purpose. CAOT cannot guarantee that all submitted photographs will be published. Please note that we do not distribute copies of these photos to any third parties or private practices. Photographers retain the rights to their photos but authorize CAOT to publish them in any issues of Occupational Therapy Now printed between 2019 and 2023.

We appreciate your participation. Please read and fill out the form below to authorize your consent for this project.

Thank you.

The Canadian Association of Occupational Therapists (CAOT) provides services, products, events and networking opportunities to assist occupational therapists in achieving excellence in their professional practice. In addition, CAOT provides national leadership to actively develop and promote the client-centred profession of occupational therapy in Canada and internationally.

The photographs submitted will be used in our publications, and on the CAOT website. Examples of our publications include, but are not limited to: Occupational Therapy Now (our Association's practice magazine that is published six times per year), the Canadian Journal of Occupational Therapy (a professional peer-reviewed scientific journal published five times per year), our annual reports and membership brochures. Other uses of the photographs include: OT Month promotion (posters, newspaper ads, etc.), CAOT books and special project promotion.

The photographs are owned by CAOT and will remain in our stock for use. Please note that we do not distribute copies of these photos to any third parties or private practices.

We appreciate your cooperation in working with us in developing new stock photographs. Please read and fill out the form below to authorize your consent for this project.

Thank you.
